The Vatioan Regards King Edward's and Kaiser Wilhelm's Attentions to the Senerable Pope as a Recognition of Temporal Sovereignty-Protestant Backing for What Catholics Cast Off Pope and Emperor Ailled Again.

ROME May 15 .- How right we are in distrusting prophets and how deceptive are human conjectures! We have here a striking example. Thirty years ago, just after the establishment of the German Empire, on the eve of the Kulturkampf. was a common thing for Catholics to look on the Kaiser as an Antipope the Protestant Antipope, and on the defeat of France as a disaster for Catholicism; all the anti Catholics, and particularly the Italian anti-Papists, acclaimed Herr von Bismarck and his two formidable creations, the empire proclaimed at Versailles and the "civilizing struggle" against Rome. In their eyes the Protestant empire of the Hohenzollerns succeeded to the power and influence of Catholic France; it meant the political ruin of the Papacy forever. Do the Catholics or their foes need any proof to-day that they were both mistaken?

The "civilizing struggle" regenerated and strengthened German Catholicism. The Hohenzollerns have become the best friends of the Catholics, once persecuted but now the surest supporters of the empire. The empire renews before the whole world with mediæval brilliancy the idea of the two powers allied and united for the good of the people, the Emperor and the Pope.

At Rome the Emperor is paying a formal visit to the King of Italy, we read in the anti-Catholic Secolo, but his presence is only justified, is only apparently interesting, but really interested, when its object is shown to be a visit to the Vatican, with a triumphal procession, with his horses and white cuirassiers brought on from Berlin. This visit is made by the Emperor according to the ceremonial demanded by the Vatican so as to preserve all rights and all claims of the Holy See.

He starts in his own carriages from German soil, that is to say, the Prussian Em-bassy to the Vatican; he allows no other escort or protection than his personal suite and a German squadron, and after he has talked with His Holiness, his Chancellor has a long interview with the Holy Father's Minister. Were the Emperor Francis Joseph, the venerable dean of Catholic sovereigns, to come to the Vatican, he could not behave with greater deference.

And of all the plans that the Emperor talked over with His Holiness which one is first announced as about to be put into execution? The one that fits in best with the magnificent and unforgettable address at Aix-la-Chapelle, namely the inaugural of the new cathedral at Metz in the presence of the Pope and of the Emperor, the Pope by his legate, the Emperor in person, seated side by side on the same platform. And this great symbol will rise in a few days in the provinces conquered by Germany, which is called Protestant, from France which is called Catholic a few cannon shot distant from that France which is closing the churches after having taken Christian ity out of its schools, which is driving out monks and nuns after having degraded by bribery, theft and all kinds of scandals every political and judicial institution from

While in Rome and throughout Italy the journals which are thrilled by the name of Garibaldi or of Mazzini hail an obscure French politician, an ephemeral Minister, who, after dinner at the Villa Medici has declared that "Rome is intangible," the same journals spit fire and flame against the King of England and, above all, against is nephew, the German Kaiser, a Protestant, too, and as powerful a sovereign as

"What!" they cry, "they are not even Catholics, they are explicitly or implicitly ignore the Papacy and yet they come here to assert, under cover of a diplomatic fiction, that the Pope is a sovereign, not merely a spiritual sovereign, but a temporal sovereign. The one quietly, the other with pomp, lends himself in Rome itself to the programme settled upon by the Curia to preserve its claims. No: for them there is not one single sovereign at Rome; there are two, and that is an insult to the nation an insult to its King! What use have we for their visits if they are made only at the cost of this affront? And it is a radical Ministry, supported by the Socialists, that tolerates such abuses! We are dared to our faces, and Italian regiments line the route of our insulters from the Quirinal to the Piazza di San Pietro!

1871-1903! When Pius IX. died many good souls groaned, thinking that when the beloved Pope was gone it would be hard to turn men's hearts and eyes with as great enthusiasm toward the rock of St. Peter! How many "thinkers," acute rationalists, declared or thought to themselves that after that Pope of kindness and nobility, bearing the august crown of tragic misfortunes, no Pontifex Maximus could act with such vividness on men's imaginations! Again both sides blundered. The augurs on the right and on the left were short-sighted. "I am with you alway even unto the end of the world." The child who understands these words knows more than the augurs of the right and the left. "Even unto the end of the world. Perhaps the world is only beginning.

At the beginning of the nineteenth century Napoleon closed the abyse of the Revolution and disinfected France by placing the cross on the brow of the Roman Empire A few years later the Czar of all the Russias made himself the protector of the Sovereign Pontiff against the new Constantine, who had become a persecutor. Later still, Catholic nations took up again their guard of honor around the Vatican; afterward they deserted it. The Church morally, has lost nothing by these desertions. To-day the immortal right of the Popes, thanks to a diplomatic fiction which strikes at the heart of the despoilers, is respected, and by whom? Above all by heads of Christian States that are not Catholic, Edward VII., on whose dominions the sun never sets; Wilhelm II., head of the nation to which an infinite future seems destined. Czar Nicholas II., who will perhaps soon, as they have, make his way to the Vatican. "Political manifestations." they grumble around Monte Citorio. Nonsense! Sovereigns have no other policy than their conscience or their interests that is to say, the interests of their people. That the conscience of Edward, of helm, of Nicholas should impel them to present their respects to the Vatican, at what time, under what Pope, can we find a parallel for this? And if it is the interest of their people above all that brings them, is not that a proof that the Catholic Church holds in the whole world and under the three greatest non-Catholic sovereigns a such that these three sovereigns, in spite of their prejudices of all kinds and in spite of all obstacles by formal or secret alliances, think it necessary to manifest solemnly their respect?

Gentlemen of the Quirinal, you cannot escape from this dilemma; either you are of not enough weight, you and all the revolutionary and anti-Christian forces that you control to prevent the heads of the most important States from going to the Vatican, or else these non-Catholic heads of States feel under such obligations to the Vatican that, in spite of all their sympathy for you, they prefer the Vatican to

XIII. and of his faithful minister, Car-dinal Rampolla, to cut through or smooth away many difficulties; t extend and strengthen the beneficent action of Catholicism, which is the whole of Christianity. However, we will take care not to prophesy even about the Vatican. One thing is clear to every one: that he should make his life conform so far as possible to the Christian ideal, and that he should give his humble aid to the collective work of Catholicismpeace love, progress-wherever the human soul moves NNOMINATO

WHAT BILL DEVERY WON'T DO.

HE WON'T IMITATE THE FELLOWS THAT AIN'T THE PEOPLE,

This Anniversary-Celebratin' Statue-Breetin' Administration, but Everything Will Be on the Square
-A Shot at Charlie Parkhuret.

Big Bill Devery, as he intimated in his speech at Woodhaven on Friday night, is going to do something for Queens and other parts of Long Island if he is elected

"When I'm at the head of this thrivin' nunicipality of Greater New York," he said yesterday afternoon, as he sat on the ver-anda of his cottage at Rockaway Beach, "law's goin' to be administered with equality all 'round. There ain't goin' to be none of your cheesy Greene sandwich stunts. The people's goin' to get what's comin' to 'em, and that's what they ain't gettin' now. When I'm doin' business in Low's old stand it'll be strictly on the Devery plan, good and straight, a fair field and no favor.

"You won't find no leather-hinge sandwiches being shoved out with lager beer around here. Two-thirds of the people won't be buncoed out of their rights. That's just about the proportion, you know, that's being bamboozled by our present anniversary - celebratin', statueerectin' administration. The other third ain't being touched. They buy Greene's bread and meat heirlooms and never notice it, for they've got the dough. Them's the fellows that ain't the people, and the excise law wasn't made for 'em. But look at the crowd of poor people that come over here every Sunday They bring their lunches with 'em. They get free dancin', and free music, and free air from God Almighty's unattached generator. They get free everything but booze, and

They get free everything but booze, and they're willin' to pay for that.

"But they don't want no sandwiches mixed in. They've got the eats with 'em, as I said, and Gen. Greene and the rest of the goody-goody bunch are tryin' to force the coin out of their pockets to pay for somethin' they don't want. Let the reform birds be on the level, and, if they're going to enforce the excise law over here, let 'em enforce it uniformally and with equality. If I was Greene I'd close my face and take to the tall grass.

enforce it uniformally and with equality. If I was Greene I'd close my face and take to the tall grass.

"But the sandwich game ain't the only one the people is up against. I told 'em in my speech at Woodhaven last night that they weren't gettin' what was coming to 'em. They're payin' taxes for Greater New York, and as near as I can see they're being played for greater suckers than the rest of us. You don't notice the city supplying any of these new towns with water, do you? No; the water they get is controlled by a stopcock over in Wantage, England.

"Marquis Croker is just about the sort of a fellow that kills a bull once a year and gives the people the hoofs. And you don't see any volunteer fire companies being paid, either, do you? No, they ain't, you bet; but they all ought to be paid, and I'm goin' to see that they're put on the square if I get in. I'm goin' to look out for this place over here generally, for it's one of God's own spots. The Long Island people have been paying graft for the grabbers long enough." long enough."

Big Bill denied that his speech at Wood-haven was the opening gun of his cam-

haven was the opening gun of his campaign

"There ain't goin' to be no opennin' gun," he said. "It's goin' to be an explosion, and it'll come all at once. The people's only waiting for me to touch her off. I'll do that on next election day, and, mark my word, hell will be raised, and I wouldn't be surprised if they'd fish Charlie Murphy out of the ashes afterward. The people is only waitin' for the chance. They've had a crack at Tammany, and a crack at Reform, and now they're goin' to take a crack for themselves. Will they do it good and proper? Well, I guess yes. Will a rotten egg float?"

proper? Well, I guess yes. Will a rotten egg float?"
Referring to the bouquets which the Rev. Dr. Parkhurst threw at him as the minister was sailing away, the Chief said
"Charlie is all right. He means well. But preachin' politics in the pulpit ain't going to win many souls to the cause of the Lord Jesus Christ."

SUBWAY TRACK LAYING.

It Done-Tunnel to Brooklyn Fairly Under Way.

The laying of tracks in the subway is proceeding rapidly despite the strike troubles. Between Fourteenth and Thirtythird streets and between Forty-sixth and Seventieth streets the four lines of tracks have been put down and most of the ballasting has been finished.

The delivery of the cars to be used in the tunnel will begin in a few weeks The cars will be landed from flatboats at the yards on the Harlem River front at the end of the Lenox avenue extension. By the beginning of October, Contractor McDonald hinks, the east branch of the subway will be sufficiently finished to allow for the running of trial trains. These trial runs will be made frequently every day, up to the time of the public opening of the tunnel, n order to discover possible imperfections n the rolling stock. Some of the cars will be used for a time on the Second avenue elevated railroad, upon which there are wo or three very sharp curves. The purpose of these early and prolonged tests is to insure a perfect equipment and to guard against any hitch in the operation of the road because of "unforeseen difficulties."

The sinking of the forty-foot shaft at the

The sinking of the forty-foot shaft at the Battery, where the work of tunnelling under the East River begins, has not only been finished, but a fifty-foot length of the galleries leading to the bed of the river, where the boring proper will start, has been completed. This under-river section of the Brooklyn extension will run from the Battery to Joralemon street, Brooklyn. The compressed air plant for the boring of the tunnel has been put in place. The greater part of nel has been put in place. The greater part of the Joralemon street shaft has been dug and when the requisite level has been reache borings will be begun from the Brooklyn side of the tunnel

CHAPEL CONSECRATED.

Archbishop Farley Performs Ceremony at St. Bernard and St. Bridget's.

The ceremony of consecrating the chapel of St. Bernard and St. Bridget was completed at St. Patrick's Cathedral yesterday morning by Archbishop Farley. The hapel is the gift of James S. Coleman.

At 7 o'clook yesterday morning Archishop Farley, attended by the Rev. Father P. J. Hayes, the Rev. Father D. J. McMackin, he Rev. Father T. F. Murphy and the Rev. Father J. V. Lewis, began the procession from the sacristy to the new chapel. After recitation of pealms the Archibishop dessed the salt, ashes, water and wine that were to be used in sealing the altar

The priests and altar boys then marched The pricets and altar boys then marched to Sacred Heart Chapel, where the Archbishop chose relics of Saint Bernard and Saint Bridget for the new chapel, as the laws of the church require that the bones of two martyrs must rest in the sepulchre of each consecrated chapel. Then the procession returned to the chapel of St. Bernard and St. Bridget.

Archbishop Farley blessed the marble sepulchre before putting in the relics. The slab sealing the sepulchre is a thin piece of marble about the size of an envelope, highly polished.

The consecration of the altar pedestal followed. Then the priests put on the altar linens, crucifix and candlesticks. This completed, the Archbishop removed his cope and put on vestments to celebrate the first mass at the new altar. The mass was said for the father and mother of Mr. Coleman.

The altar is of marble and onyx. To the right and left are statues of St. and St. Bridget.

It is admitted that if Machen succeeds in establishing the fact of a partnership, his chances of escaping with a very light penalty or of getting off scot free will be very good. With the fact of the partnership established, Machen would, of course, still be an offender against the postal regulations and against the laws, but the aspect of the case would be changed. Machen would be placed in the position of having sold the patent fasteners to himself, and it would then be necessary for the Government to take up the question whether the price paid for the patented article was exorbitant or not. The Government's case would be greatly weakened in any event and Machen's possible punishment greatly diminished. were married in the Marble Collegiate Church on Wednesday, sent out with their wedding cards others showing that they will be at home after June 15 at 271 Clinton avenue, Newark, N. ## $2,130,000 FOR THE SEMINARY.

WINTHROP BEQUEST TO PRINCE-TON THEOLOGICAL SCHOOL.

A Million Dollars More Than Was Expected Surrogate Fitzgerald Holds That It is Subject to a Tax of $106,000.

The Theological Seminary of the Presbyterian Church of Princeton, N. J., will receive from the estate of Mrs. Mary J. Winthrop $2,130,391, which is a million dollars more than had been expected before the inventory and appraisal of the estate was made, and almost a million and a half more than the intimate friends and acquaintances of Mrs. Winthrop believed the bequest would amount to. The trustees of the seminary had opposed the imposition of any inheritance tax on the bequest tion of any inheritance tax on the bequest, but Surrogate Fitzgerald overruled their legal objections and signed an order yesterday fixing the tax at $106,519, by which amount the total of the bequest will have to be reduced, making it $2,023,872.

Mrs. Winthrop, who was a daughter of Maltby Gelston, a Collector of this Port in the early part of the nineteenth century, inherited most of her wealth from her husband, Henry R. Winthrop, who died in 1896. She lived for many years at 35 West Twentieth street, and was an active member of the First Presbyterian Church of this city and a liberal supporter of its charitable and religious enterprises. She died at Garden City on Aug. 11 last, at 85. Her gross estate was $2,307,638.

Mrs. Winthrop, who had no near relatives living, made bequests to some twenty-five distant coasiliareted that her whole five distant cousins, amounting in all to $73,000, and then directed that her whole $73,000, and then directed that her whole residuary estate should go to the Theological Seminary, "for the extension of the Church of Christ upon earth and the promotion of the glory of God." She named as her executors the Rev. George Nixon, who has been for twenty-eight years the restored the Temport Preshyterian Church. pastor of the Tremont Presbyterian Church, and Winthrop McKim of Tuxedo It was rumored that some of the cousins were about to bring suit in the Supreme Court to about to bring suit in the bequest to the seminary, and also the power of the trustees to avail themselves of the legacy, under the terms of the institution's charter, but so the proceeding has been begun. ar no such proceeding has been begun.

IRON STEAMBOATS OUT AGAIN. tunning to Coney Island After a Winter's Thorough Overhauling.

Beginning with yesterday the Iron Steam boat Company's trips to Coney Island have been resumed for the summer. The boats leave the foot of West Twenty-second street and New Pier 1, North River, at frequent intervals. The popularity of these trips is principally due to the fact that this is the only all-water route to Coney Island, and affords an opportunity for an hour's invigorating sail through the most picturesque part of New York harbor. During the winter the fleet has been overhauled. Each vessel has been fitted with your believes and a modern electric plant. new boilers and a modern electric plant.
